Hudson Highlands Fjord Trail

HHFT's new Breakneck Connector will implement a five-point strategy of traffic-calming improvements in the mile area north of the Breakneck tunnel. With this entire package of improvements installed, DOT will lower the speed limit to 40 mph.

1. A new “Welcome to Hudson Highlands State Park Preserve” gateway sign on the hill as drivers descend southbound toward Breakneck, signaling the entry to a recreational area
2. Vegetated bump-outs to provide a safe space for pedestrians to gather as they wait to cross the road
3. New crosswalks to control and direct street crossing behavior, which is currently chaotic
4. Sidewalks to provide a safe walking route to the nearest crosswalk for those exiting their cars
5. Formal parallel parking spaces, which will remove the opportunity for unsafe and illegal nose-in parking and constricting the road in a way that alerts drivers to slow down. Whereas 250 cars might have squeezed themselves along the road in the past, the new design will allow for 77 cars in painted, formal parallel parking spaces.
