

 Hudson Highlands
Fjord Trail

The Fjord Trail project is at the master plan stage, which does not include detailed plans. The project must first undergo a rigorous SEQRA-mandated environmental review. Documents are currently being prepared for submission for the DGEIS. The findings from the GEIS process will directly inform decision-making on site plans for this phased project. Therefore, specific final plans for the entire trail do not yet exist.

A helpful article on the difference in the level of detail laid out in a site plan vs a master plan can be found here.
