

Since data is still being compiled for the GEIS process, there are currently no study results completed or ready for review. All aspects of the environmental review, including economic impact, will be available for public review during the public comment period.