We are always looking to further solutions-oriented discussion with community members and value the collaborative, project-shaping relationships we have with so many folks in the community who care deeply about everything you mentioned. Cold Spring residents have provided—and continue to provide—project-shaping input in a variety of ways, including:

- by volunteering for committees, such as the Visitation Data Committee
- by speaking directly with our Executive Director, including at open gatherings like our Sunday Afternoon Chats
- by participating in public workshops
- by participating in community surveys
- by participating in a focus group
- by directly sharing input via info@hhft.org
- by attending a Walk & Talk event
- by joining groups working to collaborate with HHFT to inform the project, such as Philipstown Advocates for Trails
