HHFT and our project team thoroughly vetted all potential construction managers through a competitive RFP process. It is true that Consigli Construction has been named in some personal injury lawsuits, as individuals alleging injury are barred from suing their employer and in turn sue the project owner and construction manager. Scale and volume need to be considered here: Consigli Construction is a large construction manager with over 250 active jobs in 11 states and annual revenues over $2.5B. A valuable metric of note in considering Consigli's reputation for operating safely is its Experience Modification Rating (EMR), which at .69, is highly favorable compared to other competitive firms of similar size and experience. In terms of contract litigation (vs. personal injury), Consigli Construction Co., Inc. has only two pending matters, which given the amount of current active projects, is a very low number.
